

January 17, 2026: On Whether Donald Trump Has Lost 'It'? Yes, He Has.

As a normal citizen of the United States of America that has no political affiliations, no position of power, no resources, and nothing at all, besides my own voice, to intimidate the 'most powerful man on earth' -

Let me be the first to explain to you that Donald Trump and his team are exhibiting 'naked rapacity' against our household and are exhibiting to us sadistic and psychopathic tendencies to continuously intrude into our life, our precious moments, and our daily lives.

The New York Times

OPINION

MAUREEN DOWD

Behold Donald of Deliria!

Jan. 17, 2026, 7:00 a.m. ET

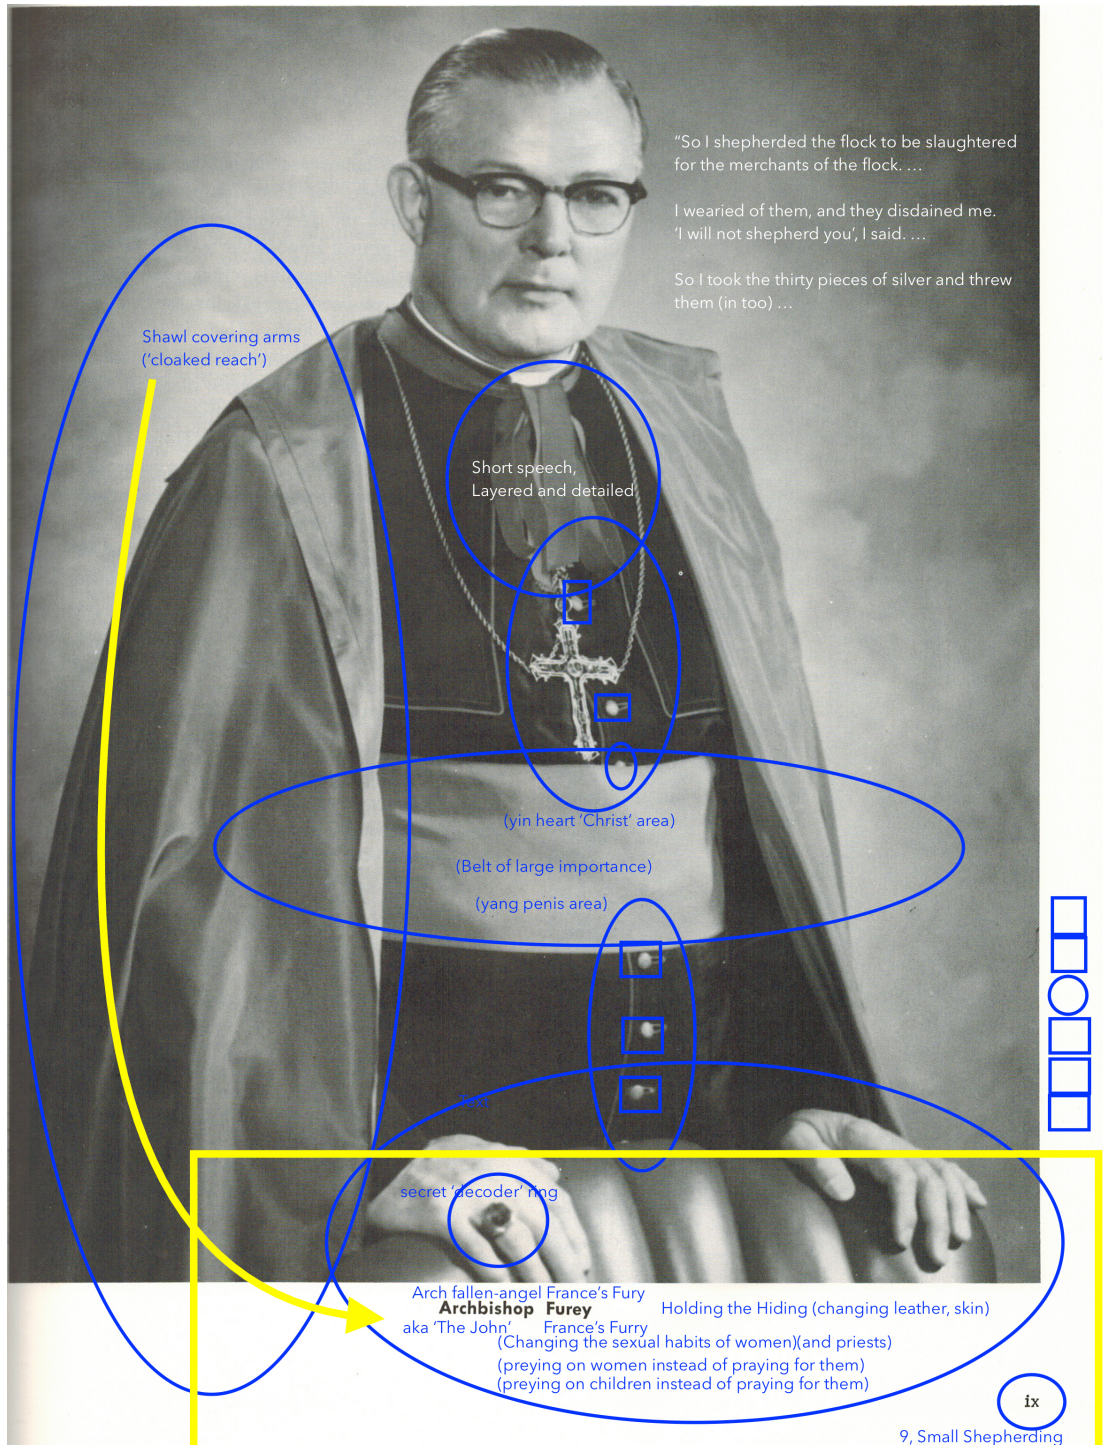

Trump's entire doctrine is naked rapacity, from Venezuela to hijacking the Kennedy Center to hideously remaking the White House in his own gaudy image.

A fake peace prize from FIFA wasn't enough for him. The greedy little piggy was licking his lips as María Corina Machado, Venezuela's opposition leader, curried favor by handing over her Nobel Peace Prize on Thursday. Pathetically, Trump accepted it, giving Machado a swag bag in return that included a medal with his picture on it.

The Panthers presented Trump with two championship rings, a jersey that said "Trump 47" and a gold hockey stick.

"That stick looks beautiful," said the gilt aficionado, fearing the jersey would be his only swag. "Maybe I get both. Who the hell knows? I'm president. I'll just take them."

Donald Trump's team is unmercifully spying on every movement I make and every piece of computer work that I produce. (And then using this information to construct his false persona). The general strategy is to watch the most interesting man in the world (me) and then paste aspects of my life and work over Donald Trump's insanity to hopefully 'woo' the public to Trump's side - as if he (Trump) were me (Chris Carlin) and not him (Donald Trump). Trump is literally positioning himself as the anti-Christ!

Even down to his Furrries Event and (don't forget) the Great Gatsby Party! Donald Trump's Team is stealing my work product and re-inverting it to their own (demise). I am here documenting this phenomenon not as a passive observer, but as the star of their psychotic show. (This has been an ongoing problem in my life since I was a child. I am literally the descendant of the Kings of the World and this is the reward that I received for my inheritance.)

Comedian and podcaster Tim Dillon was aghast at a Mar-a-Lago charity event that included people dancing in period costumes and dog masks and slammed it as “absolutely psychotic.”

On Saturday's The Tim Dillon Show, the comedian said he failed to wrap his head around why the dog mask charity event would be something to do when the country is facing so many crises both at home and abroad.

On the show, Dillon roasted the Mar-a-Lago event as “1000% psychotic” and incredibly poorly timed.

(For the record there are now first responder sirens blaring all around my home at this time as I post the final image.

Apparently, the insane asylum feels threatened by this last 'sign')(Fuck these demented losers)

(Seriously, using the police to intimidate me from political speech in real time, in my own home!)(What a group of shit-filled losers!)

◆ AI Overview

The gesture of circling a finger around the ear or near the temple is a widely recognized, nonverbal sign used in North America and many other regions to indicate that a person is "crazy," "nuts," "has a screw loose," or is speaking nonsense. 🔗

Key Aspects of the Gesture:

- Meaning: It suggests the person being described is irrational, acting wildly, or has "lost their mind".